Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.In November 2003 the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) proposed a policy regarding a type of wastewater treatment practice called blending. Some cities use blending to manage peak flows of water and waste into wastewater treatment plants during and after storms as a way to prevent conditions that otherwise result in raw sewage backups into homes and other buildings or overflows into nearby waters. Blending involves routing excess wastewater around the plant s biological treatment processes and recombining this excess flow with fully treated wastewater before discharging it to a stream or lake. EPA officials say that the agency may decide by this summer whether to issue a final version of the blending policy, which is intended to clarify when the practice can be allowed and still adhere to Clean Water Act regulations and requirements.
